A friendly and familiar face, senior counselor, Mr. Keller.

Not just a face in the crowd.

In today's world many people are caught up in clothes, jewelry, diets and other things that are thought of to make them better. The only problem with this is, in doing this everyone always compares themselves to others, wanting what they don't have instead of appreciating what they do have.

When we started this book we knew it would be different from most books of the past, but that's how it should be. We knew that Northwest had a very wide variety of teachers and students and everyone fits in, or at least should. In any group of people there are going to be differences among them, but the important thing is to be you. If you forfeit yourself, your likes, your personality to fit in then you're not fitting in at all. But if you do act yourself people will accept that (or go on) and you will be doing the most important thing of all — Filling Your Space!

Summer camp! Summer camp meant sweating from hard work, worn out legs from walking from class to class, and boredom from listening to lecture after lecture. It also meant meeting new friends, staying up late eating and going to dances with fellow campers.

The varsity cheerleading squad, Ann Condre, Meredythe Charleston, Lisa Ferguson, Jenny Abner, Julie Ellett and Shellise Strode along with the Junior Varsity squad, Jasmine Park, Tasha Anderson, Talja McDonald, and Charmaine Hopsin attended Vincennes University for one week of cheerleading camp. The squad practiced old routines and learned many new ones.

"Cheerleading camp is always a lot of fun. When we are there, we all feel like sisters. Our growing friendship showed when we won the spirit stick!" said Jenny Abner, senior.

The six Vanguard staff editors, Dee Hampton, Amber Ratcliff, Andrea Deckard, Robin Hood, Paula Herbstreit and Laura Hoage, attended Ball State University from July 17-22. The week consisted of all day classes, seminars and homework every night. The classes were tough, but what each of them learned helped out in the final project — Vanguard '89.

"The dance on Thursday night was the best part of the entire week. All of us danced the latest dance steps and even taught a few of them to some of the not so hop campers there," said Amber Ratcliff, senior.

Each of the six girls took separate classes and therefore often competed against each other during the week's events. Some of those events were volleyball, water races and cross country racing.

"I learned a lot about copy editing at camp. Camp was fun because we got to meet people from other parts of the state, but I'll have to agree with Amber, the dance was the best part of the week."

The Silverettes went to camp for four days and three nights at DePauw University. With a lot of hard work and determination, the group learned five new routines, plus improved their old routines. The week of camp included many fun activities and a fourth of July party. Finishing out the week, the Silverettes won third place in the final show. Throughout the week the group was evaluated on their strong and weak points.

"Camp was a lot of hard work, but it was also fun. I learned new techniques and improved in twirling the rifle," said Danielle Samm, sophomore.

Everyone felt the same way about camp. It was a lot of hard work, but it was worth it!

What's Happening?

Elections, Olympics, Abortion Issues

The nation was in a state of suspense as the 1988 Presidential Elections were held this year. The candidates for the Presidency were Republican Vice President George Bush and Democratic Governor Michael Dukakis. The candidates for the Vice Presidency were Republican Senator Dan Quayle and Democratic Senator Lloyd Bentsen. In the end, the Republicans easily defeated the Democrats by a landslide.

Another big issue in politics was the elections for Governor. The candidates for Governor were Republican Senator John Mutz and Democratic Secretary of State Evan Bayh. The candidates for Lt. Governor were Republican Marion County Prosecutor Stephen Goldsmith and Democratic State Senator Frank O'Bannon. In the end, the Democrats defeated the Republicans.

Much hard work and pride supported our athletes as they participated in the games of the twenty-third Olympics, held in Seoul, Korea. The United States brought home many majestic gold. One of the gold medals was won without actually placing first in the race. Carl Lewis had originally placed second in competition. However, he received the prized gold after first placed Canadian, Ben Johnson, failed his drug test.

One of the most controversial aspects affecting teens today is abortion. People have long been split over the question of whether a mother has the right to take the life of her child. There are two opinionated sides to this argument. The anti-abortionists believe that it constitutes murder if a woman aborts her unborn baby. In the past, these radicals went as far as to burn clinics to prevent abortions. Now, they have found more moderate ways to express their views. On the other end of this conflict exist the supporters. These people believe that a mother has the legal right to stop an unwanted pregnancy. The pro-abortionists have many issues to support their stand. Several include: rape, unwed or teenage mothers, and improper planning or timing.

One issue that had a direct effect upon students was the debate over minimum wage. Some politicians felt that the standard earning should be increased. This opinion was arrived at for several reasons, one being the rise in the cost of living. The opposing side felt that an increase in minimum wage would cause an unbearable level of unemployment. This was because the businesses wouldn't be able to withstand the strain in their budgets, forcing them to let some employees go. Along with just the original question of whether to increase minimum wage came other significant points. Some were: how much of an increase should be allowed?, and over how many years will the increase take place?

It was all work and no play . . .

until 2:30

Each day of school was different for most students at NHS. Some of the days went by slowly while others went by quickly. There were students who felt the school days were boring, while others had exciting school days.

"People screaming, in the halls was an everyday thing, especially rushing to class," said India Tyler sophomore.

As the days went by students at NHS expected a lot of excitement. "It's serious fun!" said Tina Turner, sophomore.

There were a lot of students who just came to school because they had to and had no real purpose here. There were also those who came for a good education and worked hard to earn an "A".

"School is a lot of fun and hard work but when you get the good grades it all pays off!" said Toiannette Rice, senior.

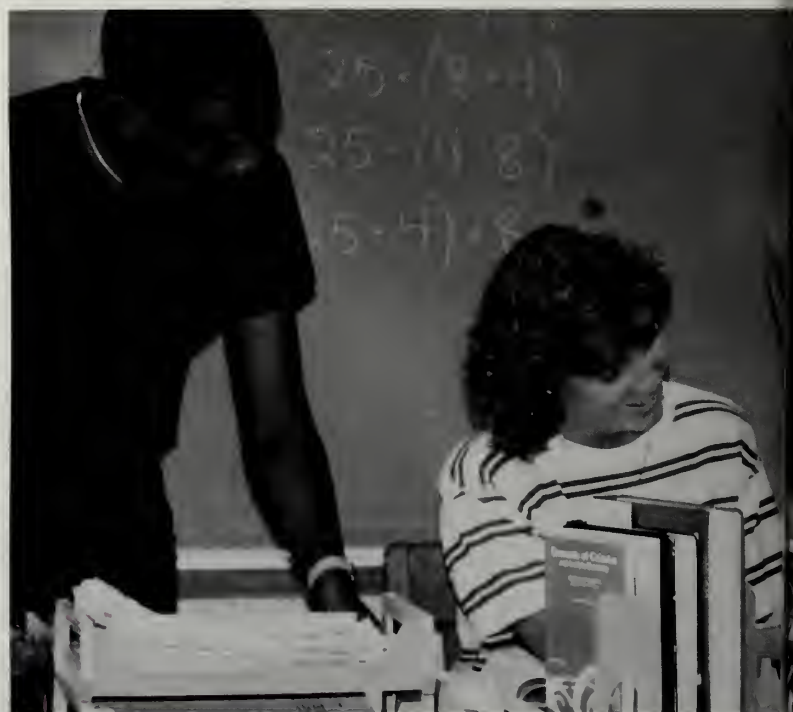

No matter how you put it, school is different for everyone.

"No two days are ever the same. I enjoy the students and try to make the best of things," said Bernie Keller, Freshmen Counselor.

The mall, downtown, dance clubs

Where did you go? On the weekends there was always something to do. There were so many different crowds, which meant a wide variety of plans could be made. A typical weekend ranged from going shopping, driving around (cruising), going to the movies, concerts, and just being with friends. Marlo Wade, sophomore, said, "I enjoy shopping and going to the Claver Center."

This year, more students attended football and basketball games. There were many reasons to have come to the games. There was the halftime entertainment with Silverettes and band and the Cheering. Some students came to watch the game and some just to be with friends.

Teen dance clubs like Down Under and Rascals were popular. "I love to dance and enjoy going to dance clubs," stated Julie Hines, sophomore. There was always a party going on somewhere. "I just drive around and find somewhere to go," said Jeff Miller, junior, "but first my car runs out of gas."

Group dating seemed to be more of a thing than one guy, one girl. Usually, a group of guys and girls all went out. Many people enjoyed spending quality time with their boyfriend or girlfriend. "I like to go skiing and to sprint car races with Jerry," said Michelle

Smith, senior.

If on occasions, you may have wondered what teachers did, Mr. Birk seriously said, "My idea of a good time includes going fishing and skiing, but my favorite is running over cats and kids in my car." Another teacher was asked and commented, "Other than mud wrestling my weekends are crammed!"

IPS adopts new policy

Thinking about cutting class? If so, you had better reconsider!

The new attendance policy enforced this year left no ifs, ands, or buts about a student’s required presence in the classroom.

Daily attendance had been proven to be a main factor in student achievement, self discipline, punctuality, and the development of habits concerning responsibility.

Due to the overall low test scores of the Indianapolis Public Schools System, there had to be significant changes in students’ attendance. The guidelines that were set were believed to be the most promising aspects for community benefit.

As well known, two unexcused absences (within a semester) resulted in either a letter of a phone call home. Six unexcused absences resulted in a meeting with the principal, where a reasonable solution could hopefully have been reached. Last, but not least, eight unexcused absences led to automatic failure in any class. Along with this policy came a ‘buy-back’ option. This gave the student an opportunity to remove an unexcused absence from his/her records to obtain a passing grade in that class.

When approached with the question of what the new attendance policy had done for Northwest, there were varied thoughts all leading up to a general consensus.

Mr. Burns concluded, “The program shaped some students up and shipped others out.”

Mrs. Greenland believes that “The program had made students realize that being in class is the only possible way to totally absorb the learning process.”

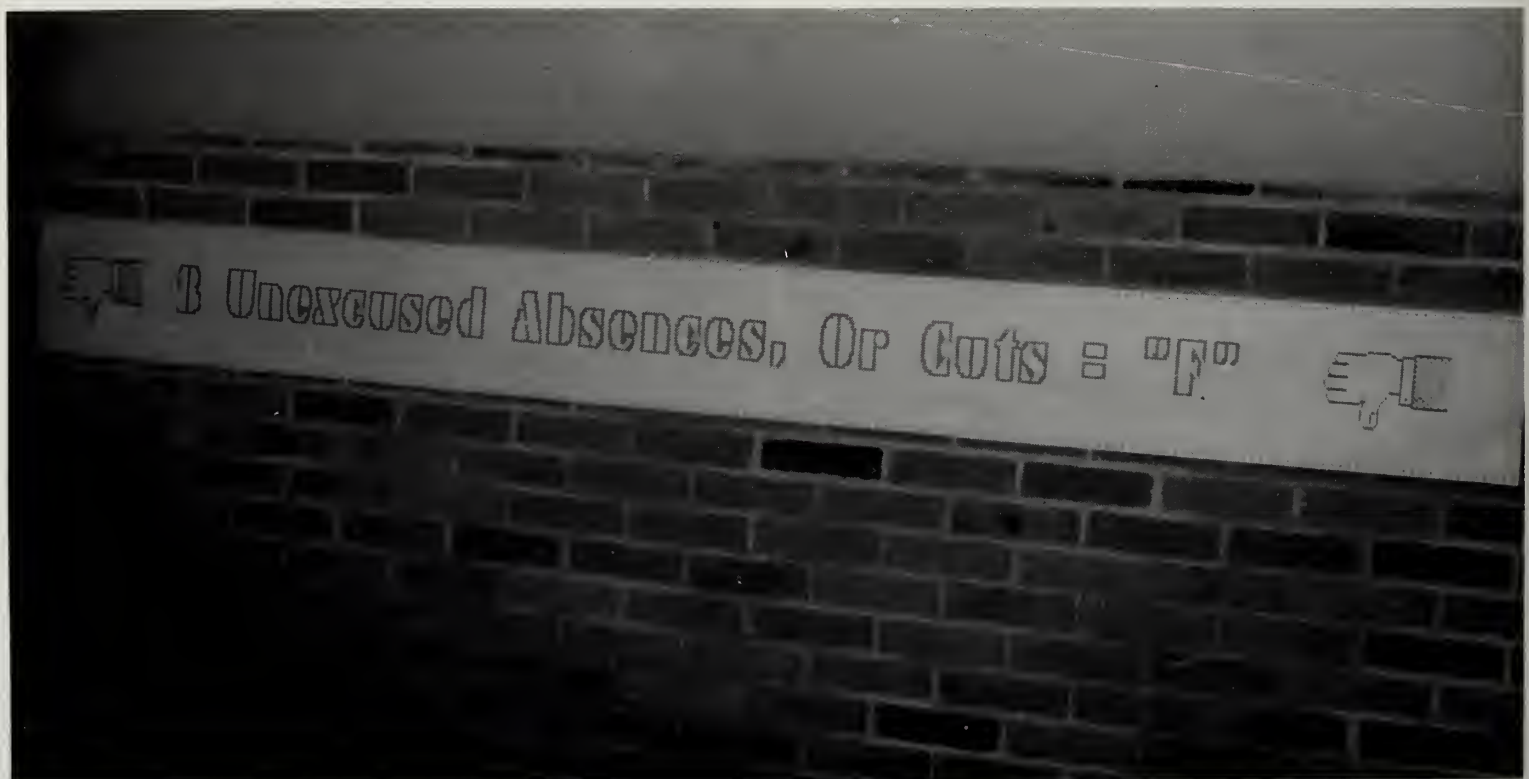

Jennifer Abner and Susan Stewart, seniors, commented, “The policy separated those students who wanted to learn from those who just didn’t care.”

“Peer pressure was a main cause of cutting class among students,” stated Ms. Franceschini. “However, the policy gave students a good reason to give to their friends for not cutting,” she concluded.

Throughout the course of the school year, the new attendance policy helped some people while it hurt others. But, all in all, it served as the tool for producing more well-adjusted individuals.

adding dimension

Everyone was looking forward to a great school year in "88". There were new teachers and one new secretary. The teachers always seem to know things about us so here is some information about them.

The new head of the Math Department is Henry Volk, who has been teaching high school students for 29 years.

"I enjoyed working at NHS very much, both with the students and faculty," said Volk.

Cindy Dugan who is an Algebra 1, Algebra 3, and Calculus teacher studied to become a teacher at DePauw University and this only her second year of teaching.

"As a new and young teacher I was able to interact with students on a one to one basis," said Dugan.

James Anderson just began his first year of teaching as a Geometry teacher. He is a graduate from Indiana University.

"NHS was very challenging

as well as the students," said Anderson.

Gilbert Speer is a business teacher. Speer studied at Hanover College and Indiana University to get his degree in business. He then decided that he wanted to coach so he went to IU to get his teaching degree as well. Speer is also the head coach of the Northwest Varsity Football team.

"All of the students had great personalities!" said Speer.

Cherie Donaldson, who was very helpful here to our Special Ed students transferred here from Central State.

"It takes a real commitment and dedication for this job," said Donaldson. Although she never taught on a high school level.

Rosen Harriet has been teaching Special Ed for 2 years. Harriet also taught 20 years ago for the peace corp on Dominica. She went to the University of Colorado to get her teaching certification and also the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee.

"This is a really nice school, and I really enjoy the students," said Harriet.

Elsie Humfleet has been teaching for 10½ years. She went to Greenville College, Northern Illinois University, Franklin College, Marshall College and more!!

"I really enjoy teaching here at NHS, a lot of the kids were friendly and there were those who were so-so, but that's normal," said Humfleet.

A foreign language is always fun to learn; but for Janice Hofts her favorite is French. She is a graduate from Indiana University, and she has spent 22 years teaching French, and 10 of those years at John Marshall High School. She is involved in the French Club, she has been to France 3 times, once with students, and studied there for a year.

"Students learned about the language, the culture, and thought it was a fun and enjoyable year!" said Hofts.

David Newman who teaches in the Music Department is a graduate from Butler University. He likes writing and arranging commercials. He performs weekends with a vocal group, and has been in cinema for 10 years.

"I was thrilled to teach at NHS. I really enjoyed the students and the faculty that I worked with. And for the guys out there come on, we could use your voices!" said Newman.

Larry Dixon is a music teacher, he went to IU School of Music, and has been teaching for 4 years.

"I related with the kids really well and at times there were those who tried to see how far I could go," said Dixon.

A changing world

"in" styles and fads

What will I wear? Does this question seem to appear when you least expect it? Although we would like to look sophisticated and flawless most of the time, it is often impossible. Being yourself is the most important aspect in dressing. Most people claim their style changes depending on their mood and where they are going.

In the dictionary the word fad is defined as a passing fancy or fashion. Over the years many fashions have come and gone; it also seems that many of them are coming back.

Many people prefer to be preppy but a bit daring while others prefer to be simple and conservative.

"I like to wear clothes that reflect my personality," stated Jasmine Park, sophomore.

More people are wearing hats and colorful scarves to add to the decor of their outfit. Other accessories include suspenders, belts and gloves. These fashion flairs made a basic look more attractive.

"Accessories add a certain style to an outfit," stated Alyssa Catt, sophomore.

Fashions change so quickly that it is sometimes difficult to keep up with the style. A variety of magazines help to inform us on the latest craze. They help by telling seasonal colors, types of materials, and approximate prices.

Prices of clothing are another great factor in the way you dress. Although some prices are extremely high, it is often worth it to look your best.

Many students are willing to pay the prices for famous clothing while others refuse to do so; after all, you should create a look that is all your own.

equals big victory

The week of Homecoming was filled with many fun and exciting events. The week started off with the decorating of class hallways. A new event was added this year; the decorating of faculty advisory class doors. This was done in contest form to help boost the spirit of NHS students. The winning room belonged to Mr. Combs and the M&M's.

Although Spirit Week is fun, the day of the game is always the most exciting. This year the game was held on a Saturday afternoon, rather than a Friday night as in past years. Halftime included more than the usual activities. Not only did the band play, with the Silverettes performing along, but there were also the selling of yearbooks to alumni and Homecoming shirts and sweatshirts. The design was an original by Tim Shutters, senior. The crowning of Homecoming court, however, was what a lot of people were looking forward to. The 1988 Homecoming court was as follows: King, Dedric Grays; Queen, Andrea Deckard; Prince, Marcus Grays; Princess, Ann Condre; Sophomore Court, Roger Pierce and Michelle Clark; Freshman Court, Chris Condre and Effy Popov.

The game was ended with a score of 19-13 — the Pioneers were victorious over the Raiders. Homecoming festivities ended with a dance which was held in the cafeteria from 8:00-11:00 p.m. The entire week went by quickly, but the overall mood was positive and spirited.

"My Forever Love"

Which dress should I buy? What color of tuxedo should I rent? How should I wear my hair? Where are we going to eat beforehand?

Do these questions sound familiar to you? If they do then you might have been asking questions referring to the prom. Northwest Junior-Senior Prom was held at the Madame Walker Ballroom on April 30, 1988. The prom theme was "My Forever Love" and music was provided by D.J. Amp Harris.

The prom court was King, Gerald Holland, '88; Queen, Jill English, '88; Prince, Timothy Shutters, Senior and Princess, Meredythe Charleston, Senior.

"Prom was great in itself, but being crowned Prince topped the entire evening," exclaimed Timothy Shutters.

Holland announced, "I didn't even know that my name was on the ballot until that evening; I'll never forget being crowned King. The whole experience was great fun."

All couples were dressed differently this year. Dresses ranged from black to peach to white, and tuxedos ranged from black to grey to white. Most girls did not wear the traditional long, lacy dresses, but rather short and more simple. This did not take away from the beauty of the prom, for the ballroom was beautiful and looked delightful.

"Even though the crowds get smaller, the fun keeps growing. Prom went very smoothly, minus a few minor details, but next year will be even better," said Rocky Grismore, Prom Chairman.

BASIC SKILLS

This year, a new program for the special education students emerged. The program, Basic Skills, thought the students skills that were necessary for survival.

Mrs. Al-Khatib, the head of Basic Skills, expressed, "This is the most successful program. It allows students to become independent, where as in the past, the pupils were very dependent on others."

Also involved with Basic Skills are Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Donaldson. They instructed the students how to perform in the community, by teaching the pupils how to do everyday functions that most people take for granted. Mrs.

Donaldson and Mrs. Montgomery worked with moderately and severely handicapped children. They taught them how to do things, such as: crossing the street, shopping at a store, budgeting, riding the bus, cooking, and cleaning.

Part of the Basic Skills program allowed the students to work for various companies and stores.

Chris Jones, senior, worked at Eagle Bowl. He made minimum wage.

Chris expressed, "I like working at the bowling alley, and the money comes in handy for personal use."

Some of the students have worked in a variety of jobs, such as David Kinzie, sophomore. Kinzie is currently working at the produce department at Kroger's. David has also worked at Osco Drugs where he stocked the shelves.

David said, "Out of everything involved with the Basic Skills program, I liked the jobs the best."

If the students continue working, they might eventually become totally independent. They could live in a group home with three or four other handicapped people, where a house parent comes to check on them every now and then. The students also have goals that they hope to accomplish other than becoming independent.

Erica Sizemore, freshman, said, "In the future, I would like to work with teenage kids who have a speech impairment."

Erica Gladney, freshman, expressed, "Some day, I hope to work in a daycare center, because I love little kids."

In conclusion, Basic Skills is a good program for our society. Since these students are learning how to live on their own, they fit in with society, better. The aim of Basic Skills is for total integration, so that we could all live in harmony.

Operation Pass

The Operation Pass Program in the Indianapolis Public Schools was initiated as a result of legislation passed by the Indiana State Legislature which provided funding for programs at the building level to impact students who were identified as "at risk." "At risk" students were defined as those students who scored low on the ISTEP Test required by the State.

Northwest High School submitted a proposal which was intended to impact students in the school setting, students in the community setting, parents, teachers and the community.

Tutoring was determined to be the primary method of attacking students' difficulties. In order to impact these students it was felt that the method of teaching and the environment were the key areas for change.

First, mini-courses entitled "peer tutoring" were added to the schedule. Students interested in being tutored or in volunteering to act as tutors were recruited through the Northwest

Guidance Department early fall semester of 1988. Tutors were assigned to the "peer tutoring" mini-courses first and were taught basic skills necessary for them to be successful by the teacher coordinator, Mr. Lizart.

Once training had been completed the students were assigned to one of the mini-courses on the basis of recruitment and interest. A total of nine of these courses giving one-half credit were on line first semester.

The second component of the program to be implemented was the Community Tutoring Program. It was determined that 80+ "at risk" students resided in the area served by the United Northwest Area Association. A commitment was sought to utilize their facility at 30th and Clifton Streets as a tutoring site. Tutoring was offered each Wednesday from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

The first community based session resulted in an attendance of two. During the first semester this program resulted attendance of approximately thirty students per session. These sessions have been lengthened to 8:00 p.m. on Wednesdays and attendance has remained constant. Most of the students attending these sessions have shown an increased grade point average.

An incentive program is now being initiated in which students receive points for attendance. They are also given sets of questions in the categories of math, English, science, social studies and general interest to increase their knowledge and interest. Points are also given for correct answers to questions.

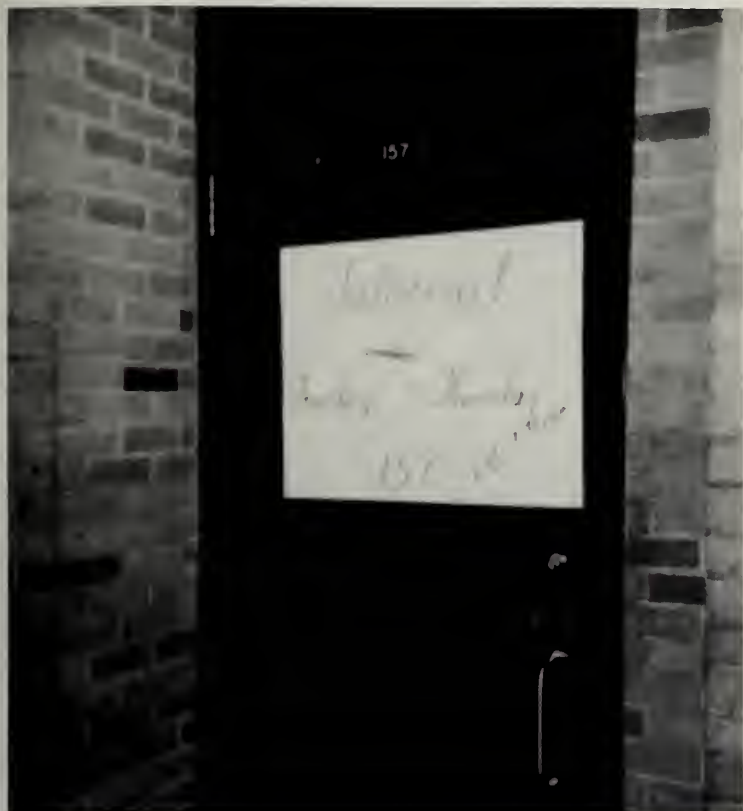

The following teachers are regular tutors; Mr. Richard Grismore, Mr. James Anderson, Ms. Margaret Garrett, Ms. Gloria Singleton. We have seen complete administration support in these efforts at the United Northwest Area Association facility with the attendance of our total administrative staff including Mr. Don King, principal and Mr. John Schulz and Mr. Julian Coleman, vice-principals. Students have the opportunity to see these administrators in action as tutors at almost every session.

The third tutoring area occurs after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. While attendance has not yet become as significant as that at the community level, students are present at these sessions. The same incentive program that is in place in the community will soon be in place in these after school sessions.

Further developing projects under our program include parent workshops and speakers, teacher workshops and an adopt-a-child component.

The spring play for the 1987-1988 school year, "The Mouse That Roared" was performed on a near bankrupt country's attempt to war with the U.S. in order to lose and then receive aid from the U.S., only this particular country defeats the U.S.

The principal Northwest actors in this play were seniors,

Beth Annarino, Rian Logan, and Jon Buckner. The cast also included juniors, Jennifer Abner, Julie Ellett, and Susan Stewart.

"The turnout at the two performances were not that great, but I think the play was good," said senior, Jon Buckner, who portrayed Count Mountjoy.

"I feel the play was well done, however it could have been better," commented Stephanie Perrine, senior, who portrayed the President of the U.S.A.

"One possible reason for the smaller than expected crowd could have been the conflicting scheduling with Michael Jackson's 'Bad' Tour," added Perrine.

Although a smaller than hoped for crowd attended the play's two performances, those who did attend felt the play was well done and looked forward to the Northwest's next school play with much enthusiasm.

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY

A pretty girl of twenty-two happens to be the present Duchess Gloriana, sovereign of a microscopic country in the Alps founded centuries ago by a roving band of bowmen. Gloriana's unique solution to the near bankruptcy of her tiny domain is to declare war on the U.S! There is some method to her madness, however, for her study of recent history suggest that the surest way to wealth today is to lose a war with the United States, for that country's odd reaction is to pour aid, relief and rehabilitation on the vanquished. When her "Declaration" is considered a prank, Gloriana decides to escalate! Tully Bascomb, presently in charge of the bowmen, is to launch an attack so they can surrender. Seriousminded Tully, however, upsets all calculations when he and his men do the last thing expected - they win! You will find comment in the comedy crescendo that follows including some pointed kind words for America.

Summer Entertainment Sizzles!

Music & Movie Hits

This past summer was hot, and not just by means of temperature. This summer exploded with a number of block-busting movies including: LICENSE TO DRIVE, BIG, NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET — PART FOUR, WHO FRAMED ROGER RABBIT?, MONKEY SHINES, and COLORS.

Debbie Charboneau, junior, expressed, "COCKTAIL was a great movie, and had excellent music."

Other hit comedies LICENSE TO DRIVE and WHO FRAMED ROGER RABBIT? were very popular among Northwest students.

Matt Gunning, junior, said, "LICENSE TO DRIVE was a terrific movie, and it almost seemed to be my life story."

Gail Morgan, junior, expressed, WHO FRAMED ROGER RABBIT? was such a fantastic movie, that I had to see it again."

Many new music groups emerged this summer such as Guns and Roses, Richard Marx, Taylor Dayne, and Keith Sweat. Other groups who we haven't heard from in awhile, made a comeback, including: Public Enemy, Aerosmith, Poison, Ice-T, Van Halen, Peter Dinkler, Easy-E, Def Leppard, Al B. Sure, and Robert Plant. Among those sizzling artists, many hits were released. "Hold on to the Night," "Tall Cool One," "Easy-Duz-It," "Tell it to My Heart," "Sweet Child O' Mine," "Make it Last," "Pour Some Sugar on Me," "One More Try," and "Letter From the Government," are just a few of the many sensational songs we heard this summer.

Every student has a different viewpoint on music. Some pupils listen to predominantly hard rock music.

Stanka Popov, junior, said, "I like to listen to all sorts of music, including dance music. I especially like good heavy metal concerts, like Monsters of Rock."

"This summer's variety of music was very wide-ranged. It was a mixture of heavy metal and rap. But, the best album of the summer was Guns and Roses — Appetite for Destruction," expressed Thad Ferguson, senior.

Other students felt that rap music was the best.

Jon Madison (DJ Allstar), junior, said, "Rap has come a long way since its beginning, but I feel that it has gone too commercial. Some rappers have sold-out, and are playing for the public instead of themselves. This is what makes "underground rap" (street music) — groups such as: Ice-T, Public Enemy, and The Compton Posse sell well despite limited airplay. They don't care what the public thinks, as long as the artist likes it."

"Hip-Hop is the only innovative form of popular music left!" expressed Matt White, senior.

Some pupils viewpoints on music remained unchanged, despite today's latest bands. Traci Freeze, junior, said, "I like all types of heavy metal, especially the older groups, such as Kiss."

Many students like soft music. "Soft rock comforts the mind. Some of my favorite artists are: Al B. Sure, George Michael, and Cheap Trick," stated Maribeth Eller, sophomore.

Still other pupils like a variety of music.

"I listen to all types of music ranging from soft rock to new wave. Some of my favorite groups out right now are: Erasure, Information Society, and New Kids on the Block. I don't have any favorite type to listen to; but it usually depends on the mood that I'm in," stated Amber Ratcliff, senior.

With all of the different varieties of music this summer, there was something to please everyone.

No matter what type of movies you prefer — scary, adventurous, funny or dramatic — there was a movie out there just for you. So as far as entertainment went this summer, it sweltered!

Students Take Full Advantage

For the last six years Northwest High School has offered a course called Advanced Placement, also known as A.P. A.P. begins the second semester of the junior year for those students who qualify for the course, and continues through the last semester of the senior year. Advanced Placement is a college prep course, meeting two periods each day for English and American History.

"I feel that taking A.P. is the most beneficial thing I have done in high school. A.P. has helped me in trying to reach my goal of getting accepted into Harvard," said Laura Hoage, senior.

Junior A.P. English is taught by Mr. Cohen, while senior A.P. English is taught by Mr. Combs. Mr. Brown teaches both junior and senior A.P. history.

The class is structured to broaden the interests and knowledge of the students by exposing them to the humanities. Some of the class subjects the A.P. classes have studied include: comparative religion, different forms of art and a large number of novels.

Although the number of students accepted into the class may vary from year to year, the class is relatively small to insure more personal instruction. In past years A.P. was team taught with Mr. Brown and Mr.

Combs teaching together in both periods; however, this year there were not enough students in the senior A.P. class (only 19) for them to teach together.

Trips to Chicago, New Harmony, Vincennes, the Islamic Center, and the International Festival were taken also to enrich the students' cultural background.

"It has been great to get a head start on college work with A.P. It has been hard, but I would not change any minute of it or second guess my decision in any way," said Brent Brennan, senior.

Reaching For The Stars!

Five years ago, Andrea Fortson, Class of '84, went to our principal, Mr. King, with the idea of recognizing academic excellence with letter sweaters just like those received by musicians and athletes. Mr. King and our Partners in Education at Indiana National Bank agreed that this was a good idea. Northwest was the first high school in Indiana to reward high academic achievement in this way. The recipients of this award are also honored with a luncheon, attended by the students, INB dignitaries and administrators.

We have had many prominent speakers including: Governor Orr, State Superintendent H.D. Evans, Judge Joseph Paine, Leslie Olsen, and this year, Henry Bundles. These people are respected by the award recipient for the positions they hold in our society and for the natural respect and pride they have for our high achievers.

The criteria used to determine the Academic Award winners are as follows: Each student must have a 6.500 grade point average at the end of six semesters; they must have accumulated 30 credits and they must have completed or be enrolled in: two years of math including algebra and geometry, two years of science including chemistry and/or physics, and eight semesters of English.

The Class of '89 had twenty members qualified to receive this honor: Jennifer Abner, Darren Bell, Jennifer Billings, Brent Brennen, Dean Charbonneau, Meredythe Charleston, Yvette Clark, Andrea Deckard, Stacy Eder, Julie Ellett, Dee Hampton, Courtney Hill, Laura Hoage, Allene Manning, Arlene Manning, Timica Means, Regina Phillips, Michelle Smith, Rena Smock, and Susan Stewart.

Mrs. Pat Kirby, NHS-PIE Liaison, said, "The enthusiasm for this program grows each year. Underclassmen are asking about the criteria more and more, and wondering how they can win this award. This honor can open many doors to the professional futures of our NHS students. We are very proud of their four year achievements."

Hard work again produces success

To become valedictorian or salutatorian takes great amounts of perseverance, motivation, and determination. The current valedictorian and salutatorian both worked very hard to achieve this great honor. They have attained this honor, not by luck or fortune, but by possessing those necessary qualities.

"Being valedictorian is a great honor. It is not an honor achieved only by the student; there has to be a lot of love and understanding at home as well as school. Studying and working hard for four years has made me a tougher person, both mentally and socially. Teaching this goal has taught me that anything I wish to accomplish in life can be done," said Regina Phillips.

"Being salutatorian is something I have worked for since my freshman year. It is an honor and a privilege to be distinguished among my classmates as an achiever and an intellectual," said Laura Hoage.

The people who obtained these titles are two people that should be looked up to and respected for the fact that they set a high goal and worked until they accomplished it. There is a great deal to be said for people like that.

The Forgotten Few

What kind of person do you think of when you hear the words 'award recipient'? You probably visualize a hardworking, devoted person who does his/her best in everything they do. Well, if that is the case you are correct! However, there are exceptions; not everyone who does well is recognized on Awards Day.

We polled several people within the top ten of their classes (who have never received an award) and asked them about their views regarding awards.

Andrea Deckard, senior, said, "The fact that I have never received an award doesn't affect my attitude toward school because I have my own personal achievements that I pride myself on meeting each year."

Tammy Capien, sophomore, stated, "It depresses me to find out that someone is receiving an award for their hard work, when I don't even get acknowledged for my efforts."

Jasmine Park, sophomore, commented, "Not getting rewarded doesn't affect me much, but it would be nice to receive an award!"

admitted, "It makes me wonder why I keep trying year after year if no one realizes my potential."

Matt Beaumont, junior, expressed, "I don't think it is fair that only certain people receive awards. I'm not implying that these people don't deserve them, because they most certainly do, but, what the system fails to realize is that there are a lot more of us that should get some recognition for our achievements."

Cindy Peck, junior, said, "I think that everyone who makes that special extra effort should be rewarded; even if it was something little, it would be very significant to me."

As you can see, not receiving awards for their achievements is a problem for the "forgotten overachievers" of Northwest High School. I would like to wish all of these people good luck in the future. I only hope that the students and faculty now recognize these determined individuals for who they truly are... THE BEST!

Future Relationships

Students usually date freely throughout their high school years. However, there are those individuals who manage to establish a lasting and meaningful relationship. These special bonds develop over a long and eventful period of time, through which the couple suffers both good and bad times.

Many Northwest couples have survived over the years, and are looking forward to a bright and happy future. Some of these plans include marriage. The bond of matrimony is a giant step in a relationship that must be thought through carefully.

There are many things that may conflict with a teenage marriage. Some students have plans to attend college or some other institute. Others may want to enlist in the armed forces or just find a job. Whatever the circumstance, it takes a certain mutual love and understanding to see a commitment, such as marriage, through.

Within the halls of Northwest are several couples that have captured the essence of "true love". These people are eagerly looking forward to joyful futures with their special companions.

Laura Hoage, senior, and John Hunter met four years ago at the M.T. Velodrome where they were racing. They have been dating ever since. They haven't made any future plans, but they are sure that they will be together.

When asked about her relationship with John, Laura commented, "All the times we've been together have been great, but one of the most memorable was when he was racing in Lawrenceburg. He had a terrible accident and we spent the night in the hospital. It was a bad time, but it made us realize that we can make it through anything."

Michelle Smith, senior, and Jerry Miller have been going out for about ten months, and truly believe that they are in love. Even so, they haven't formally decided to wed.

Michelle stated, "I met Jerry at a basketball game during my junior year. He had come with one of my friends, Scott Moreland, who introduced us."

Regina Phillips and Lester

Dalton, seniors, have been seeing each other for two years. They are very much in love, and have already decided to marry.

Regina expressed, "We first met in Mr. Black's chemistry class during our sophomore year. We began seeing each other, and soon after I realized that there is no body more like him than me! He can be thinking about something, and I'll say it before he has a chance! I would like to get married and learn by traveling with him instead of going to college. We became engaged on Christmas Eve, but have not yet set the date. However, I believe it will be some time after he completes basic training."

Although most students experiment during high school with relationships, some have found their ideal companions. These fortunate individuals are anxiously waiting for a beautiful life with that special someone in which they will find a true harmony filled with love and marriage.

Administration?

The administration at Northwest was faced with many problems; some of the biggest were attendance, respect for others, and communication. Many of the administrators think the problems could be solved by hard work and parent cooperation.

"Some days are better than others. Sometimes I feel that I'm banging my head against the wall trying to get kids in class, but others day I feel a great accomplishment," said Jane Franceschini, Dean of Girls.

Mrs. Worrell, Dean of Boys said, "The problems are so many that it ends up being an endless job."

Neither of the deans' efforts to maintain discipline worked, often times home contact was necessary, sometimes referral to agencies outside of school was also necessary in order to uphold peace and order.

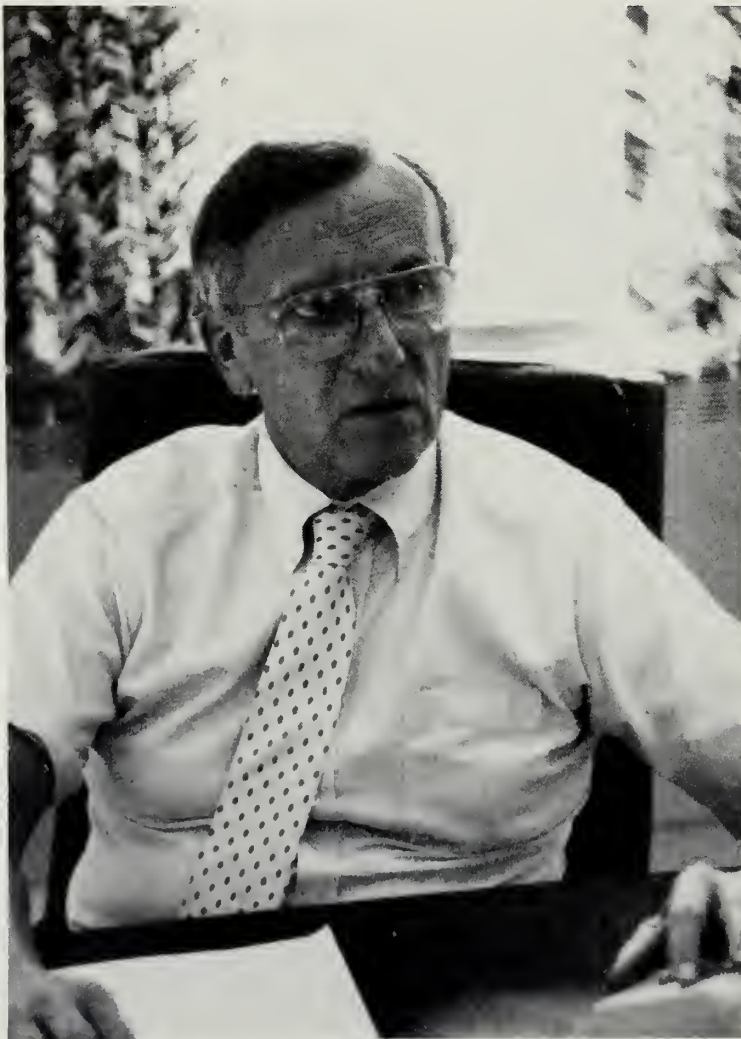

Mr. Shultz dealt with pupil personnel. He made sure that student schedules were in order and he sometimes dealt with student discipline.

Building and grounds management were the duties of Vice Principal Mr. Coleman. He made sure that the building was kept up and in running order. He was also responsible for the bus schedules.

Mr. King's primary functions were to provide effective leadership in the organization, administration, and supervision of the educational program of the school.

A teacher well known and loved — Friend most missed teaching. It was extremely enjoyable and made the educational process easier. His students were in continual competition, for after every test occasions, he gave small (but significant) gifts to those people with the top scores.

"Mr. Freeland had his own unique way of teaching, and everything he taught was comprehensible," expressed Cecilia Morales, sophomore.

Karrie Thomson, sophomore, said, "He made my math classes more enjoyable."

"Mr. Freeland was one of the best math teachers that I've ever known," said Don King, Principal.

He wasn't just a dedicated teacher, but also a true friend. Many students went to Mr. Freeland with their problems. He always had honest and helpful advice. He was so loved by his students that several affectionately nicknamed him "Bubba F".

Regina Phillips, senior, recalls, "My most fondest memory of Mr. Freeland was on Marian County Math Day. He took eight of us in his car to the contest, and afterward he treated us all to lunch."

There is now a Memorial Chapter dedicated to Mr. Freeland. It is appropriately called "The Ronald G. Freeland Memorial Chapter".

Ronald Freeland was a gifted individual who was capable of captivating students both academically and personally. He is greatly missed, as no one will ever be able to take his place in the hearts of Northwest students and educators.

By Traci Freeze

In Memoriam

Ron Freeland shows that the key to success in teaching is a lot of humor and an occasional break from working.

Faculty advise new program

Most students view teachers as the enemy; as people who are against you if you do not think or act in ways that are suitable for a pupil. The Indianapolis Public School System started a new program this year entitled Faculty Advisory. This program was set up in order to help shatter the myth that a student and a teacher cannot have a friendly relationship and to let the students obtain a home base with one teacher. One teacher who, for four years, can give more personal guidance than perhaps a counselor who has a workload of two-hundred to three-hundred students.

After discussing the question of whether the program would be a success or not with Mrs. Kirby, who has been an English teacher here at Northwest for fourteen years, she enthusiastically commented that, "In all of my experience as a teacher, this was definitely one of the better programs developed by I.P.S."

Mrs. Hofts, whose first year at Northwest happened to be this year said, "The program definitely has potential and the four year curriculum is honestly a good idea."

Even the students are in favor of the new faculty advisory program. "I think that more personal attention can quite possibly be given to many troubled students through this program," said Eric Zaban, junior.

"It also can make the job of a counselor much easier and give students and teachers a time to organize and regroup themselves before school starts."

The next three years will confirm whether the faculty advisory program was a good idea. Although some of the teachers and students were skeptical, one year has passed successfully.

Problems plague Northwest

Scheduling problems plagued the IPS school system during the 1988-89 school year.

"A number of aspects contributed to the scheduling difficulties," said Mr. Schulz, vice-principal.

Last year summer school ran a week late and the normal school calendar started a week early, leaving only three weeks instead of the usual five to program the schedules into the new computer system. Furthermore, the mainfram computer downtown was broken down for six working days of that three weeks.

"Two-hundred and fourteen new students have enrolled since August 15, of those 109 were freshmen," said Schulz.

Contrary to past years, enrollment for about 15-20% of the freshman class came late in the year as a result of the IS-TEP test. Students who failed the test in the eighth grade could obtain a waiver from the principal and enroll in high school later.

"Teacher assignments to Northwest turned out to be much too small. It is a lot harder to get teachers after their school year starts," said Mr.

Schulz.

All of these criteria contributed to the problems students and teachers alike had with schedules. However difficult and trying it may have been, everyone survived and the school year ran smoothly.

Work, Work, Work

Though we do not stop to think how important they are, the people who clean our school and feed our students play major roles in our school system. They are found all over the school from 5:45 am until the close of the day. Some put up with the long lines of hungry students and others must put up with everyone's carelessness and excess litter.

Although the custodians and kitchen help do not receive the recognition that they deserve, they continue to work at doing their jobs well.

They Really do Matter

The phones were constantly ringing. Students were typically yelling, and teachers were always asking questions. This resembled the everyday activities in the offices of Northwest High School. It would definitely have been in disarray if not for the secretaries who added their personal touches.

"I love my job. Every day is an adventure," proclaimed Mrs. Bessy Buczek the new secretary in the main office. Mrs. Buczek was very helpful this year while working with the students and teachers.

"I find it very rewarding even after 16 years," said Mrs. Betty Garvey, who is the personal secretary to principal Don King. "There are a lot of wonderful students and teachers here. It is always a pleasure to come to work."

Although secretaries are sometimes not given the respect due them, and not considered vitally important, our secretaries have proven to be the lifeline and backbone of the offices. In many cases they tried to meet everyone's needs, not always perfectly, but their services and friendliness are much appreciated and needed at NHS.

Not Just Books

Miss Walters makes sure a book is properly checked out in the library.

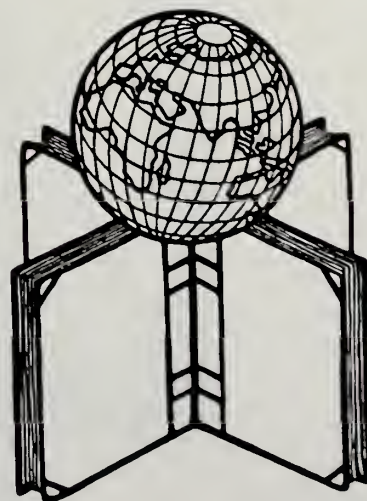

Imagine a school, with a student body of over 1200, and a library with only two books. In 25 years the library has become much more advanced, computers, a security system, and an AV program, highlight the library of the 80's. Although the staff has decreased throughout the past years, they're doing a spectacular job. One of the two present librarians, Mrs. Walters, has been a librarian for fourteen years. She noted that Northwest now has classes available in library skills which have aided our students in scoring higher on the CAP tests than other high schools; obviously the skills have benefited the students. There are also many more books now than in 1965, when the library opened. At the time the library opened there were 4,360 books, and now 20 years later, we have 33,694 books.

Indeed the library at NHS has had many successful years, and will continue for years to come.

Underclass

Best friends Traci Freeze and Cindy Peck pose for memories of their Junior years at NHS.

Chris Condre, Freshman, is caught practicing ballet. Looks like he needs more practice.

Danielle Julbert and Shawn Surber, Sophomores, stop to talk on their way to class.

Sophomores Danielle Samm and Roger Pierce are caught goofing off at a float meeting.

Junior Expressions

"We're the proud. We're the mighty. We're the class of 1990", expressed Gail Morgan, junior.

The juniors were unique this past year in the sense of school spirit. They won in the float competition, their hallway was fantastic, and the football team was predominately made up of juniors.

The juniors were also involved in leadership. They had leaders in Student Council, Stage Crew, Band, and other activities.

In the past, they were the first class of freshmen to take U.S. History; and they were the only freshmen who had Mr. Reichel (a very strict and well-respected teacher and wrestling coach). Matt Gunning, junior, expressed, "Mr. Reichel was my favorite teacher, and I admired him a lot. If it wasn't for him I wouldn't have been able to win the freshman City Wrestling Championship. I've never respected anyone as much as Mr. Reichel."

There are also many advanced students in the class of 1990. Matt Beaumont, junior, said, "We'll be the most successful group to come out of this school — athletically and academically." So, obviously, the class of 1990 is destined for greatness.

Into The Future

The class of 1990 is anxiously awaiting its turn to be the almighty seniors. With one year to go their excitement builds as graduation '90 is approaching. Many students are scared about leaving high school, but on the other hand a lot of them can hardly wait to leave.

"Your junior year is when you start to seriously consider your future. It's something to be proud of," said Chris Rowland.

"I like being an upperclassmen so I can pick on the underclassmen," John Madison stated. "It also means graduation is just around the corner."

But the best and most truthful reply came from Susan Overton.

"I think the junior class has the most school spirit!" she exclaimed.

How does it feel to be a junior? Just ask one and you'll find out!"

What is your most memorable moment at Northwest?

"My most memorable moment here has to be my first day as a freshman. Everyone kept staring at me and asking whose little brother I was!" said Adam Townes.

What is your image of beauty?

"My image of beauty really does not have much to do with how a person looks physically. Instead, I consider beauty as something deep inside a person, like their mind, heart, or soul," answered Debbie Charboneau.

Sophomores on their way up

"This Year was harder and had more homework but it was still fun." said Alyssa Catt, sophomore.

As sophomores, many felt that their sophomore year was not as fun as their freshman year.

"Everything was new and exciting my freshman year but things seemed old this year!" said India Tyler.

To many of the students it was great not being called a freshman and they can't wait to become upperclassman next year. Better yet to become a senior!

"As the years go by, I expect the work to be harder but to be a lot more fun!" said Danielle Samm.

As a sophomore you really have to try to make the best of it because your not a freshman anymore but your not an upper-classman either.

A friend is a friend is a

What is a best friend? Friend is defined in the dictionary as someone for whom you have warm regard or affection for.

There are many ideas about what a best friend is. Tammy Capien sophomore stated, "To me a best friend is someone you can talk to easily and will keep it just between the two of you."

Best friends do everything from going out together to staying home together. Danielle

Samm sophomore stated, "Julie and I can find something to do that's fun whether we stay home or not! We always laugh about anything and both of us make something boring to be fun."

As best friends there are a lot of things you like but some things you dislike about each other.

Jasmine Park stated, "Sometimes it seems like she corrects everything I say and I'm sure she feels the same way. But it's really kind of funny! What I love about her best is her sense of humor. She's great to talk to whether it's about something serious or hilarious."

Some people find it easier to have a best friend of the same sex, while others find it just as easy to have a best friend of the opposite sex.

Stacy Reuter, sophomore stated, "My boyfriend happens to be my best friend. He's the one I like talking to and being with best."

Tammy Capien's definition of a best friend is someone you can always have fun with and always count on, and this seems to be the best explanation."

SOPHOMORE THOUGHTS

As a sophomore, you have a lot to think about. You always have thoughts about your future, life, dating, working, friends, and the opposite sex. Sophomores also deal with cliques, school, hangouts, etc.

"After high school I plan to join the Marine Corps. Many people say it's not for me and I should choose something else. I think it will be a good experience for me, even if I don't enjoy it!" said Roger Pierce.

Some people have already picked out their college and what they want to be. "I think we should have some idea about what we want to do with our life. It doesn't hurt to start now," stated Jasmine Park. College is a big decision to make. Especially if you don't like school now. As time goes by, work and studies get harder and harder.

Karrie Thomson was quoted, "I would like to continue school and go into sports medicine. I know it will pay off in the end."

"In my future, I plan on achieving all the goals I have set for myself. I just do not know what the goals are yet," said Julie Hines.

At the age of fifteen and sixteen it is time to start looking for a job. Responsibilities begin to sink in, and a person must take charge.

"Everyone wants to work and go to school at the same time. It is kind of hard, but time must be set aside to do what you want," commented Tammy Capien.

Many sacrifices are made for a job. Sometimes you lose out on living a regular teenage life.

"I enjoy my job as a stock clerk at Peoples Drug Store. It is really an easy job, but I do not have much free time," stated Roger Pierce.

"I love my job at Riviera Daycare and Preschool! My hours are set 3-6, Monday thru Friday. My weekends are free. I work with kids, whom I love greatly!" commented another sophomore. Jobs for teenagers range from fast food, to cashiers, to working in daycare centers.

Another interesting thought is what teens think of dating. It is a confusing subject for many people. There are few mature guys at this age and girls seem more mature. These days, guys say they cannot figure out girls, and the girls say the same about guys.

"To me, it is the girl who cannot decide what she wants, and is always confused," said Roger Pierce.

"To me, dating is something all teenagers should experience. There are a lot of jerks out there who you definitely do not want to date. Trust me, I have gone out with a few," stated April Hayes.

Amy Woodruff had something to say when asked how she feels, "Dating is something I do not really take seriously. I like to go out with guys and have a good time."

In the sophomore class, there are many different crowds, groups, and cliques, etc. There is not just one group that everyone hangs out with. When asked her opinion, April Hayes commented, "There are many hangouts and I have many friends. We all act crazy with each other like we have no brains."

"Groups are pretty fun! You get to act silly with friends and try to pick up sexy men!" stated Marlo Wade.

As with many groups, there are many hangouts. For some, free time is spent working, shopping, and going to parties.

"In my free time, I like to go to the mall with my friends," commented Alyssa Catt.

Overall, the thoughts these students are pretty interesting. There is a lot to think about than just what is in this story.

WHAT'S NEW?!

As the year began, we saw many new things and students, such as the incoming freshmen. For many of them, high school was a great experience and around every corner were new challenges. Some of the challenges were adapting to the high school scene, fighting off the "freshmen stereotypes" and getting their lockers open. But the real challenge was the fact that Mr. Keller, freshmen counselor, had to schedule all of these students and help them get organized, too.

Mr. Keller saw a lot of academic potential in the majority of the students who had adapted to the school system well.

Schedules were a major problem this year due to one thing:

the principals at the junior high schools waved many of the students on to high school with or without passing grades. As a result, Mr. Keller enrolled 114 new freshmen within a two week period.

Even though most of the students adapted well, others saw their early school days as a big playground. Mr. Keller noticed many bad habits developing such as cutting and bad attitudes. All in all, the majority of the freshmen body, with the help of Mr. Keller, did realize the importance of an education in order to further achieve their goals.

In the end, Mr. Keller finally was able to get all of the very anxious freshmen on the road to graduation.

MARVELOUS

Where do I go now? Where's the cafeteria? Where do I go to find my locker and how do I open it? What is Faculty Advisory? These are just a few questions that many freshmen at NHS were asking teachers and other students.

Jeanine English, freshman said, "It was really easy for me because I went to summer school. That really helped."

"I was afraid that I would fall down the stairs or get lost," said Ross Ebert, freshman.

When asked if she was teased a lot about being a freshman Shantil Larue answered, "Yes I was teased a lot, but I won't be a freshman next year."

Remember how hard it was for you to open your locker? Angel King, freshman stated, "I didn't get my locker open until at least a week after the first day of school."

What is Faculty Advisory? That was the question everyone was asking. When Nichole Blane found out, she said, "I kind of like it, it gives me time to do my homework from the night before."

Robert Vazquez, freshman, said, "I really don't see the purpose of it but I guess it's okay."

Even though there are many opinions about high school and NHS itself, Corbin Stahl, freshman, put them all in one word, "MARVELOUS!"

SPIRITED SUCCESS

This year seniors-Susan Stewart, Jennifer Abner, and Jenny Billings, juniors-Stanka Popov, and Adam Towns, and sophomores-Joshua Jacquay, and Maria Clark, the cast of BLITHE SPIRIT, spent many hours after school, and on weekends, rehearsing their lines with a nonstop effort.

"Being in a play is a lot of hard work and causes a lot of stress for everyone involved, but it does have its rewards. "I love the feeling of being in front of an audience and when you get a crowd that really responds to what is happening on stage it makes it worth all the work involved." According to senior, Jennifer Billings, Edith.

When approached, senior Susan Stewart, Ruth Conomine, remarked, "Blithe Spirit was SO hard! I've been in many productions at NHS and I have to say that this one was the most difficult. Production week was unbelievable. I had so many lines jumbled in my mind. I didn't even know when they were going to come out. All the work DID pay off. The show went great and we all felt renewed and alive after every role we played. I always pick up some traits. Now, I will always contain part of Ruth!"

As you have read, it was a lot of hard work that really paid off in the end. Agreeing with Susan and Jennifer, fellow actor, junior, Adam Towns, claimed, "It was a lot of hard work. Sometimes we all wanted to just give up, but the end result was worth it. I had a good time doing BLITHE SPIRIT, and I plan to do more plays here."

By Gail Morgan

"Marie Clark, sophomore, takes time out during dress rehearsal."

"Jenny Abner, Jenny Billings, seniors, and Josh Jacquay, sophomore, practice for the fall play."

"The cast of the fall play 'Blithe Spirit' takes a final bow!"

"Another exciting moment from 'Blithe Spirit.'"

Presses Roll

There is much hard work put into the production of a worthwhile school yearbook. Such a collaboration has to be representative of the past year's events and memories. The only people fully aware of the difficulties involved are the staff. It is very demanding to follow up on every important issue, but all possible efforts are made.

The staff is made up of many different positions. This year existed an advisor, an editor-in-chief, the editors (layout, advertising, and copy), writers, and photographers. Within these areas were consultants, proofreaders, and typists. It often took a group effort to complete a particular task.

The yearbook company stresses and expects certain things that cause pressure. One is deadlines, which are set dates that require a particular number of prepared pages to be submitted. If they miss these deadlines, they are fined! A second stress factor is accuracy. All of their mistakes cost time and money. Precautions have to be taken to correct mistakes in typing, layouts, and many other things!

The staff has several main responsibilities to consider when creating a yearbook. The first step is to think of a theme for the book. Stories have to be imaginative as well as factual, and photos have to be clear and candid. The captions (information about a photo) have to be descriptive but concise. Layouts have to be perfectly drawn, down to the last square!

What's even more pressuring is the fact that the staff has a responsibility to each other. They have to work as a team to accomplish the difficult task of producing a yearbook. Obviously, there are some individuals who know a lot about certain areas of production, and it is their responsibility to teach others.

After everything is finally done, the staff doesn't rest. They then start working on next year's book. Photos and stories are done on spring sports, the prom, and other events taking place late in the year. Yearbook camp is another factor to consider. When school lets out for the summer, the editors attend camp to learn more about production.

A SENSATIONAL INSPIRATION

The Northwest music department had one new addition to their staff this year. We all know that with a new teacher comes a lot of new experiences.

Pioneer Choir and Swing Choir, directed by Mr. David Newman, was a little different this year than from previous years. The first five minutes of each period were spent on warming up voices. The students began with a series of scales which aided in helping the students learn how their voice really works.

After warming up the rest of the class time was spent on rehearsing music for concerts. The piano accompaniment was played by Mrs. Helen Greenland.

A new addition to the vocal music department was the outside tutoring given by Mr. Newman. On Tuesdays and Saturdays in the morning, Mr. Newman conducted voice lessons to further the students singing ability. Mr. Newman said,

"The vocal ensembles are an important part of the growth of music at Northwest. This is an exciting opportunity for our students; I urge everyone who has an interest in singing to explore the vocal program."

The Northwest Choirs have great promise for the future and we are sure to hear good things from them again soon.

1/2 time Madness

Did you check out the halftime show? This year, the Silverettes received many compliments on the looks of their performances. The group had a new and improved look, which came from a lot of effort and hard work. Their determination always managed to pull the routines together.

"The Silverettes is a fine group and represent Northwest very well. It is a shame that the class was dropped from the school curriculum. Much time is needed to perfect the group's look," stated Ms. Coutz, silverettes sponsor.

The Silverettes looked new and improved for many reasons. One being the week spent at a DePauw University camp over the summer. The girls worked well together under the leadership of new captains and co-captains. Everyone worked extremely hard during summer school and August practices.

"Camp was fun, and I learned a lot throughout the summer," said Tammy Capien, sophomore.

Some of the halftime performances included: "La Bamba", by Ritchie Valens; "Tequilla"; "Bad", by Michael Jackson; "So Emotional", by Whitney Houston; "Rock Around the Clock"; "Payload"; and "Twist and Shout".

When asked her opinion on performing, Karrie Thompson, sophomore, replied, "The choices of music were good, which made performing more fun."

It seems as though the Silverettes are dying out. Each year seems to produce fewer members in the organization. This past year there were approximately ten girls in the group. There was no logical reason for the decrease in interest, but hopefully next year there will be more people for tryouts. It would be a sad thing to see the Silverettes come to an end. If there were no Silverettes, there would be no halftime show.

Steppin' Up

This year the Marching Pioneers once again performed for the rowdy basketball games. Despite the fact that the band had drastically decreased in numbers, it was still able to perform at several parades, including the '500', and at Homecoming.

Many of the students feel that band was fun but could've been better.

Jasmine Park, sophomore, stated, "I think band would be a lot more fun if the people who weren't serious about it would get serious. They're the ones who keep us from getting better."

"I enjoyed marching season. I liked going out on the field. Hopefully, basketball season will be fun, too, replied Alyssa Catt, sophomore.

Band was fun, when everyone pulled together, because the end result was a rewarding experience.

The year is over, but the memories will last for those who have them and there's always next year.

Hard Work Pays Off

"Orchestra was a lot of hard work, but it also was a lot of fun. Each year the group goes on tour and visits several different places. Going on tour gives the group a chance to show off all of their hard work and talent to other people besides their family and friends who usually attend the performances," said Adam Townes, junior.

Orchestra was one of the several musical groups this year. The director of the Orchestra was William Christoff, head of the music department.

Each year the Orchestra has its annual concerts and Christmas tour. The Orchestra performs at many different places each year. Some of the places this year were Peter Rabbit Nursery School, schools 107 and 96, Hyatt Regency, and the Education Center.

"This has been the best Orchestra in several years. The group has done more performances this year than they have ever done. The Orchestra is small but great. Next year I'm hoping to increase the size and still maintain the quality of the group," said Mr. William Christoff, Orchestra director.

By Cindy Young

"Bass and cello players practice their music."

"Orchestra rehearsal runs along smoothly."

"Orchestra plays their festive hearts out for Christmas."

Small But Mighty

Have you heard the jazz band lately? Well, the reason for not hearing much of the jazz band was because they didn't have any performances. Like many activities, the jazz band decreased its number of members. 1 trombone, 2 trumpets, 1 drummer, 1 electric guitar, a saxophone, a flute, and Mr. Ragucci on keyboard. Four of these jazz band members also participated in the marching band.

"I feel jazz band is a semi-hard class. In the first semester, we learned how to transpose music, which was pretty hard. We used piano sheet music to make up notes for each instrument. All in all, I think jazz band is kind of fun but needs more people," commented Nathan Bell, sophomore.

The band was under supervision of Tony Ragucci. Mr. Ragucci said, "The band did their own musical arrangements which makes things more fun."

By: Danielle Samm

"Cindy Young, senior, and classmates concentrate on perfection."

"Orchestra displays their ability at the Christmas concert."

"The members of the Jazz Band polish up their favorite tunes."

"The Jazz Band listens carefully to Mr. Ragucci."

BRAIN POWER

The chances of a teenager having the opportunity to appear on television must be one in a hundred. That one in a hundred person must either be a genius or a criminal. In today's society, the school system has set up what is known as the Brain Game. Although the students that appear on the weekly television show have a high intellect level, they are neither geniuses or criminals, merely intelligent teenagers.

"The Brain Game is an academic, extracurricular activity. It is not something an average student would be interested in," says Eric Johnson, junior. "You must like the idea of learning to enjoy it."

Mr. Black, chemistry/physics teacher and organization sponsor, said, "The students that are involved in Brain Game work daily to enhance their intelligence. It sharpens them immensely."

Being a member of the Brain Game team is obviously not for everyone, but for the ones who are members, they are looked up to.

CULTURAL GROWTH

This year, a French Club was started at Northwest, and it took off at full speed.

"Helping to start a French Club at Northwest has been rewarding. I have enjoyed the enthusiasm of the officers and the members. I look forward to watching the French Club grow!" stated Mrs. Hofts, French teacher and club advisor.

Meetings were held on Tuesdays and Thursdays after school. Members organized Fondue, Mardi Gras and Noel parties, games and speakers.

"I really enjoy the French Club. It gives me a chance to experience French culture," said Angela Smith, freshman.

The officers chosen by the members were Lucy Bizantz, President; Kelly May, Vice President; Kim Morris, Secretary; Yvette Clark, Treasurer; Jami Ewing, Public Relations; and Maria Clark, Historian.

The French Club had fund raisers for visits to French restaurants, club jerseys and the biggest event of all, a trip to France in the summer of '89 for nine days and eight nights.

"I'm really looking forward to going to France. The trip takes us to many historic places, such as the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre and the Notre Dame. It's a great opportunity and I'm looking forward to having a lot of fun!" said Karrie Thomson, sophomore.

It's Not Just a course, It's an Adventure

Be all that you can be. This is the general motto of the JROTC; Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps. ROTC is not only an Army preparation course, it is a course that will teach responsibility, respect, good health, and leadership.

Nina Washington, junior, says, "If you are in ROTC for four years, you are eligible to enlist in the army as a private first class."

Virginia Crouch, junior, commented, "ROTC teaches you leadership skills. You also meet people who have the same things in common as you."

ROTC which was established here in 1968, has four activity groups: Rangers, Female Exhibition Drill Team-unarmed, Male Exhibition-armed, and Color Guard.

The course also helps the student socially. ROTC has extra activities such as the Military Ball, OCS camp, an officer proportional camp, candy sales, and the Indy 500 Race car parking service.

BEHIND the SCENES

When you go to see a play, concert, or other type of production, you probably never consider how much hard work the Stage Crew has done to make the show a success.

The Stage Crew builds the set, which is no small task. They also set the lights, which takes hours to perfect. During the performance, the Stage Crew is in charge of scene changes, light changes, sound, and curtain calls.

The Northwest High School Stage Crew works just as hard, as professional Stage Crews. They go back up to school and work anywhere from 5:00 P.M. to 9:30 P.M., for several weeks. They also have to give up some of their free time on the weekends by working on the set.

Mr. Tom Birk is the Stage

Crew Advisor. He makes sure that the work gets done, and that it gets done right. Mr. Birk expressed, "Every year we strive for different and challenging sets. We try to live up to our expectations, but also try to outdo ourselves."

Being a part of the Stage Crew is fun, but it's also a lot of work. Your clothes get filthy, and you get really tired, but in the end it pays off.

John Williamson, junior, expressed, "Working on stage has been very interesting, and there's never been a dull moment."

The Northwest High School Stage Crew is also composed of several volunteers (people who do not have the class, but come to help out after school). Without their help, productions wouldn't run as smoothly as they do.

Stanka Popov, junior, said, "I like working on stage, because it's a lot of fun. Also, all of my friends work on stage, which makes stage even more interesting."

Apart from plays, the Northwest High School Stage Crew also produces Award Ceremonies, set up the sound system for sports games, and work the lights, sound, and curtain for various Northwest High School concerts.

So the next time that you go to see some form of live entertainment, think about all the hard work that the Stage Crew has done to make the show run as well as it does.

Struggle worth it in end

The Senior Council is a unique group of people; they are the people who have the pleasure of choosing what things the senior class will be doing and what they won't be doing. Senior Council members choose a prom location and theme, along with favors and the like, which is not an easy job. After selecting all these things to do, they're also the ones that raise the funds to go through with their plans. However, before the Senior Council can DO anything, there must BE a Senior Council. This year's officers included Dee Hampton, Timica Means, Heather Potter, Laura Hoage, and Brent Brennan.

Like any other representative group of people, the council members have to make decisions based on the input that they receive from the group they are representing. This year was no exception to that rule; however, the Senior Council members had some difficulties which they had to overcome.

With the help of sponsor, Rocky Grismore, Senior Council went on to have a successful year, learning a great deal from their experiences. In all, as with most things, in the end everything turned out for the best.

Senior Council: Kim Taylor, Timica Means, Vanessa Prince, Brent Brennan, Laura Hoage, and Dee Hampton

Student Council successful

Student Council proved itself to be most effective this year. They had dedicated leaders, and many loyal members. Officers were: Meredythe Charleston, President; Diana Weaver, Vice-President; Gail Morgan, Secretary; Lynn Crowe, Treasurer; and Alferena Tyler, Historian. Once again, Mr. Lizart returned to the organization as sponsor.

This year, the group had several divisions of authority. Along with the regular officers existed the Executive, City-Wide, Policy, Newsletter, and Publicity committees. These were specialized organizations which dealt with specific tasks.

The members of Student Council were chosen differently than in previous years. Each roll room elected two representatives and an alternate to form the governing body. The selected people then had the responsibility to uphold what they believed proper in student views.

The organization dedicated much time to improve Northwest spirit. For homecoming, they created an unique spirit week for students to dress up, sponsored a dance and hall decorating, and sold megaphones, pom poms, and chrysanthemums at the game.

When asked about her views on Student Council, Gail Morgan, junior, replied, "We've accomplished a great deal this year, especially at homecoming with the dance and other fund raisers."

Debbie Charboneau, junior, commented, "The enthusiasm within the group helps to make our activities fun and enjoyable."

Student Council had accomplished many jobs for the benefit of NHS. It is a strong, respected organization with members whom take their responsibilities seriously.

APPLIED ECONOMICS

This program is a one-semester economics course for average and above-average 11th or 12th grade students that can be used to fulfill the high school social studies requirement. Applied Economics is taught by a licensed economics teacher using Junior Achievement curriculum materials. During one class period each week, a business consultant serves as a resource, and links economic theory to the business world.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT PROVIDES

- Student textbooks with study guides, teacher/consultant guides
- teacher/consultant training and on-site support
- Student Company organizational materials and specially designed software for a Management and Economic Simulation Exercise

- Scheduling of business executives who serve as consultants
- bi-weekly newsletter with current information and teaching tips related to Applied Economics

SCHOOL PROVIDES

- Incorporation of the Applied Economics course into the curriculum
- a classroom teacher who works with the consultant as a teaching team
- release time for the teacher to attend two days of orientation prior to each semester
- access to a personal computer with printer for the class

Mr. Compton, Susan Stewart, and Tony Burr discuss product ideas.

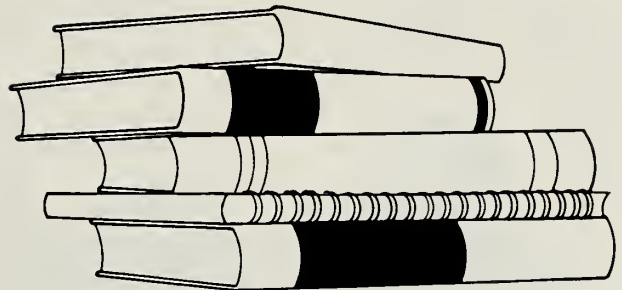

Courtney Hill, Sherry Stalsworth, and Tina Smith plan sales strategies.

DECA markets sales skills

DECA-Distributive Education Class of America is the only youth organization operating through the public schools of the nation to attract young people to careers in marketing and distribution. DECA encourages free enterprise and economic awareness through individual instruction, studies in marketing projects, creative marketing projects, exposure to successful business leaders, and by practical experience in business establishments. Distribution/Marketing Education is the study of the process of moving goods and services from the producer to the consumer. There are other functions of marketing such as financing, warehousing, risk management, accounting, transportation, and Marketing Research. Our Marketing Education Program at NHS is made up of three parts, classroom instruction for juniors, and on-the-job for seniors.

DECA is not extracurricular. The activities are designed to enhance the skills and knowledge of the student.

NHS has had 100% membership in local, state, and National DECA since 1977.

DECA believes in competition, and recognition to student members for their outstanding accomplishments.

Advance to the Future

Advanced Visual Design was a new liberal arts class that our principal, Mr. King has created for a very elite group of high academic students. This was the first year for this class and already there has been academic improvement on the part of the students enrolled in it.

The curriculum of this class consisted of everything from science and math to history and literature. They studied anything they could to help prepare them for college, and for college entrance exams. They also spent a lot of time looking into the different options available to them for post-secondary education.

There was a lot of pressure on the three students in this class to do well on the PSAT. Sean Bird, Jon Madison, and Chris Rowland feel confident enough in themselves to risk their semester grade on the results of their PSAT scores.

"This class has really encouraged me to pursue post-secondary education. It has also taught me what the college admissions boards are looking for, and has helped me to develop into the kind of person I think they are willing to accept," said junior, Sean Bird.

"I get encouragement from my peers and administrators to do well in school and on college entrance exams, as well as to pursue my future college plans," added Jon Madison, junior.

This class seems to be of help in some areas that are not stressed enough to college bound students at NHS. The Northwest administrators hope to assist many more young people through this program in the years to come.

Where has it gone?

Where is our newspaper? It has been over two years since the last issue of Telstar was printed. It was issued May 23, 1986. There were many reasons why the newspaper ceased to be produced; the paper was not going well financially, the right personnel was not on hand, and Mrs. Bohenkamp resigned as Faculty Advisor for the newspaper. Mrs. Bohenkamp supervised the production of the newspaper from 1979 until the last issue. From the beginning of her involvement, Telstar received awards in competitions for outstanding newspaper.

Telstar covered nearly everything happening at Northwest. It was circulated every two weeks. The front page always covered news, the second page involved interviews, cartoons, awards, and upcoming events, the third page was devoted to sports, while the last page revealed student's opinions on movies, television, books and editorials.

Speer's Renegades

Gilbert Speer arrived at Northwest just two weeks before the jamboree. At this time all we knew about Coach Speer was that he was young and in his late twenties, and a defensive coordinated from Greenfield Central.

The first day Coach Speer showed up, we didn't know what he was like or what we were in for. We did know we were on for a change, and a big one at that. The first thing Coach Speer told us was, "My name is Coach Speer and I put up with no bull." He also told us that practice would last all day and we could be prepared to work.

At first people tried to pull his leg to see how far his temper would go. They found out that it did not go far at all.

Coach Speer's practices were long and hard, but they were worth every minute. Coach Speer and his pack of Renegades brought the school its first sectional win. Also, a win over our arch-rival, Ritter, in the homecoming game. With these wins, he gave the Renegades respect. From now on we are going to be known as "Coach Speer's Renegades."

Pioneer Power

The 1988 Varsity football team saw a year of transition. Coach Compton stepped down from head coach to become head of the Social Studies Department leaving the varsity team without a head coach. Just two weeks before the beginning of the season when Coach Speer arrived.

The early season showed a team lacking experienced players but they learned the plays quickly. Many players, whose attitudes weren't supportive, either left or were removed from the team.

The win over Ritter at homecoming and Northwest's first victorious sectional game were the highlights of this season of change. A new feeling of "Pioneer Power" had survived with Coach Speer and his Renegades!

Assistant Coach Jordan oversees practice

Not just fun and games —

Practice began last April for the cheerleaders. Soon after the cheerleaders for the 88-89 school year were chosen they began to practice for cheer camp at Vincennes, and competition at the Marion county and Indiana State fairs.

For the first time in many years the cheerleaders chose to go as two squads to camp. Varsity received all blue (superior) ribbons and a spirit stick. Junior Varsity did well in receiving all red (excellent) ribbons. Lisa Ferguson, senior, received an outstanding honor, the most spirited cheerleader at camp.

"Out of my three years of attending the NCA summer camp, this year was the best. We all learned a great deal about cheerleading and the importance of open communication within a squad. We all became really close and learned to work together as squads," said Jenny Abner, senior.

After camp the cheerleaders began making up routines for Marion county and State fair competitions.

Football season was soon to follow. Opening with the soap bowl, in which the cheerleaders provided refreshments for the football players, and the Jamboree at the Hoosier Dome. Homecoming was an exciting experience, especially for the five senior cheerleaders. Freshman cheerleaders were dressed as clowns and sold balloons to show their spirit, while J.V. and Varsity showed the spirit by routing the team to a victory against Ritter.

Meredythe Charleston, captain for football season, said, "I believe that football season was a trying and learning period. There were many ideas of what cheerleading entailed. After getting everyone's priorities in perspective, the remainder of the season was pretty fun."

Basketball season was also exciting, with new cheers, chants, and harder partner stunts and pyramids. The cheerleaders have worked hard this year to uplift school spirit for our space pioneers.

Looking Up

The NHS boys tennis team was on the go and this year it was with a positive outlook. Even though the majority of the members on the team play just for the fun of it, they seem to be improving too.

"The team has improved on basic strokes and serving, but the attitude is the most important improvement," states Matt White, junior.

The productivity of the team has also improved because they are more determined and have a good, winning attitude. When asked what some future goals for the team were, junior Thad Ferguson replied, "We want to have a winning season."

In addition, White was looking forward to the opportunity to go to, and possibly win, state. With positive attitudes like that the NHS boys tennis team can surely look forward to a brighter future.

Over the Hill

Cross-country is a very demanding sport, both mentally and physically. Most people would find it difficult just running 2½-3 miles, but when you add to those miles hills, holes, muddy ground, and extreme cold, it seems almost impossible. However, those are the conditions that the NHS cross-country runners had this year.

The members of the team were Carlos Morales, Roland DeCastro, Konata Rhodes, Mike Lonan, Tommy Gardner, David Jackson, Randy Moore, India Highbaugh, Dee Hampton, and Angelita Gurnell. Coach Housmann also showed dedication and ran with the team every practice.

Although the sport is demanding, it can be fun and rewarding. Roland DeCastro, junior, stated, "The most memorable things about this season were the heat and cold, but I loved running with my fellow classmates especially Carlos who always kept me going."

As with any sport, cross-country runners experience injury. Despite the amount of injuries this season, the team managed to have the heart to finish each meet and the season.

Even though the girls did not have enough to complete a full team, five members, they did well and never quit. Seeing that the distance was almost as far as the boys, that was quite an accomplishment. Even with all of these demands, both the teams had fun and yet the overall season was well worth their efforts.

JV Volleyball

When the 2:30 bell rings, everyone goes home except for a special few; those that participate in sports and clubs. The girls volleyball team was one of those special few.

Although their record wasn't as good as they wanted, there were quite a few more girls that played this year than last, which gives good prospects for future years.

"Practice was hard but I feel it payed off during the games and since we worked so hard it brought us closer together and taught us how to work together as a team," said one of the players.

As many coaches agree, one of the hardest things in coaching a team of several players is to get the team to play as one unit and this is what their coach Mr. McCarty did. Teammate Allene Manning's statement summarizes this quite well.

"It is imperative that teammates get along. Any differences should be settled and forgotten before game time. Although our season turned out less successful than hoped, I do feel that we wouldn't have played as well without the closeness we had. One teammates problem was the whole teams problem."

Many of the girls agree that next season will bring on many more victories for them. And hope to see all of the fans out there rooting for them.

PIN to WIN

Mr. Craft in his second season of coaching Varsity Wrestling at Northwest has certainly proved himself. He is respected and admired by his wrestlers. The freshmen wrestlers are coached by Jim Hausman who develops skills and breaks bad habits to prepare them for the varsity program.

Many people do not fully understand the sport of wrestling. To be a wrestler it requires a tremendous amount of practice and dedication, not only during the season but the rest of the year as well.

This year approximately thirty people came out for the team including ten returning lettermen.

There was a surprisingly large turnout of freshmen this year. The last few years with the exception of the 1987 Freshman City Championship Team has had a lot turnout. "Coach Craft is a quiet and low key guy, but is a good coach," said Freshman Chris Dean.

The freshmen learned fast that wrestling was not all that easy. "Wrestling is both physically and mentally demanding," said Corbin Sathl freshmen and varsity wrestler in the 189 weight class.

The Varsity Wrestling team was assembled by: Nathan Bowman-103, Jose Diaz-112, Marty Wallace-119, Chris Dean-125, Chris Condre-130, Nick Dean-135, Chris Condre-130, Nick Dean-135, Desmond Gladney-140, Johnny Minon-145, Mike Macargue-152, Johnny Young-160, Tim Leath-171, Corbin Stahl-189, and Heavy-weight-Greg Terry.

Unlike last year Northwest has put together a complete team. Turnout last year hurt the team as a hole but many individuals proved themselves. Five of this years varsity wrestlers are freshman getting a great deal of experience for future matches. Seven wrestlers are returning lettermen all capable of walking away with a sectional championship. Big things are sure to happen for Tim Leath, Desmond Gladney, Nick Dean, and Jose Diaz in this final year of their wrestling here at Northwest.

Struggle For Unity

If you saw the recent movie Hoosiers, you know what high school basketball is all about. It's the struggle to put a team together that is willing to work through the adversities and strive to win. Players must forget the alley-ball antics of an afternoon pick-up game and think as a unit, knowing every move and prepare to attack their opponents with agility and finesse. All of the talent in the world is useless unless the team works together.

It seems as though the reserve and varsity teams are moving towards this goal of achieving unity on the court, but the final scores don't always attest to their efforts. With six seniors leaving at the end of the season it will make next year a big challenge. The talent pool is really promising, but the struggle for unity with a young team will still be there.

Jump Start to Victory

The definition of basketball as interpreted by a dictionary may be a somewhat simplified version of the Freshmen team. The players controlled fast moving games with intense teamwork to produce a winning season. With only three regular season losses to their record, the Freshmen Pioneers went on to crush their opponents and win the City Championship title. Undoubtedly, the talent on this team is something to watch as they help build the varsity and reserve squads in upcoming seasons.

TENNIS ANYONE?!

"I believe the girls tennis team has worked harder this year than last year, but we need to practice a lot more to strengthen our abilities," said Andrea Deckard, Junior.

"I think we need to learn and practice more on our basic skills, and by doing this I feel our record will improve," said Leigh Ann Hood, Senior.

Their season started off at a down fall but it came to be a rebuilding process. Shelley Weaver had a big job by being the number one singles. Also, Leigh Ann Hood and Diana

Weaver contributed with being number one doubles.

According to Miss Evans, Coach, "Tennis is a sport that needs to be played year round, weekends too. I doubt that our girls pick up a racket except during the season and then not on the weekends. Next year I'd like to see us practice during the boy's season in the fall and perhaps during summer school, too. What we all need, especially me, is some lessons."

games. A discouraging record of only one win hampered spirits at times, but many games were very close and the girls never gave up in the end.

Ideally the girls would have preferred a better showing on behalf of the student body; hopefully that will occur when a new squad hits the court next year. Surely it will be a rebuilding year, as the team will be losing some Seniors. One can only hope; however, that the girls can combine talent, desire to win, and a little luck to achieve a winning record.

Ready, Set...

Almost before the snow melts and the ground begins to thaw, runners and jumpers are practicing for Spring track events. Surely someone among the many young men and ladies participating there exists a future World Class athlete. The new track facilities, which were recently completed, should only enhance the efforts of our fleet-footed Pioneers.

Last season presented unfortunate problems of injuries and team organization, but a commendable effort was made by both track teams. Both the boys and girls teams saw personal bests achieved along with some outstanding performances in every event.

As with every sport, many of the students participating in track moved directly from the finish of one season into the beginning of another. This proved a credit to all who maintained and balanced their skills and time to make the teams a success.

STRIKE 3!

Someone not familiar with the sport would probably question the sanity of a person making attempts to strike a seemingly microscopic ball with an odd-shaped lacquered bat. It does take a special breed of individual to maintain his composure while fixing his eyes and hands on a plummeting round object, hoping to catch it in the glove and not the mouth. Speed, agility, and nerves of steel are put to the test each afternoon by the baseball team. Players begin warm-up practices during the winter months in the gymnasium, but eagerly await the warm sunny days when they can hit, run, catch, and throw outdoors.

Each season brings its own unique brand of players who attempt to better the round of the year before, and this year's players were no exception. Although the team's record was 3-11, the team's attitude was still good and improving, and that is what really counts.

Batter Up!

"The 1988 Softball team was the most talented I've coached to date. Three of the four graduating members went on to play at the university level with scholarships," said coach Rocky Grismore.

The NHS Softball team went on and had a great season with a record of 13-4 and went to the second round of Sectionals. The team consisted of sixteen players: four Seniors, three Juniors, three Sophomores, and six Freshmen which leaves a lot to look forward to for next season.

Alyssa Catt, freshman, commented, "We had a few problems in the beginning but they worked out as we got to know each other and became a good team and good friends."

The teams success and potential were not only proven in the successful record. The team also had four All City players: Kim Wright, Lanette Harford, Kasandra Stahl, and Amy Shutters. In addition, there were three players who made the All Sectionals team: Amy Shutters, Jenny Carver and Lanette Hartford. With success like that, what else could one ask?!

Imagine yourself standing on top of a hill, looking down and not being able to see the bottom. This is one of the many thrills involved with skiing.

Snow-skiing is a sport gaining world wide recognition. It is said to be one of the ten most dangerous sports in the world. There are several ski resorts in Indiana, Ski World in Nashville and Paoli Peaks in Paoli. Better skiing can be had in nearby states such as Michigan, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania. The real challenge is out west in Colorado, Wyoming and Nevada.

All ski resorts boast hotel accommodations and other facilities. Ski slope vary to challenge both novice and the expert. For those seeking challenges, breathtaking sites or just plain fun, skiing is the sport for you.

Multiple Choice Student Loans

Obtaining a good education is one of the most important investments in a lifetime. Yet the rising cost of a college, university or vocational school education places a heavy burden on the budgets of many families and individuals.

Guaranteed Student Loans, PLUS (Parent Loan for Undergraduate Student) Loans, and Supplemental Loans for Students are available to qualified applicants through INB — the largest student loan lender in the state.

Guaranteed Student Loan

The qualified student applicant can borrow up to $2625 per year for Freshman and Sophomore years, and $4000 per year for Junior and Senior years — up to $17,250 total — while completing undergraduate studies. Graduate students may borrow up to $7500 per year, and up to $54,750 total in undergraduate and graduate Guaranteed Student Loans.

Parent Loan For Undergraduate Student – PLUS

The PLUS program does not include the limited income requirements of the Guaranteed Student Loan.

Parent(s) may borrow up to $4000 per year to fund the undergraduate student's education — up to $20,000 total.

Supplemental Loan For Students

Upon qualification, graduate and professional students and independent undergraduates may borrow up to $4000 per year — up to $20,000 total.

Student Loan Information Kit

For a free, no-obligation Student Loan Information Kit (including Guaranteed Student Loan, PLUS and Supplemental Loan for Student applications), call Judy Wilkins, Student Loan Coordinator, at 266-6589. She'll send you a Kit right away.

Or, if you need additional information visit any INB Banking Center.

Don't delay. Call today so that you can begin to learn more about how to get a good education.

To Varsity Cheerleaders:
Good luck Seniors (and you too Ann!) It's been fun — despite the ups and downs! I won't forget the memories! and remember: "Never Give In — Hustle To The Very End!"
Love — Jen

Gem,
New Year's Eve still holds true!
Don't lose those Coke tabs.
M. Beau

Scott,
Can you stand the rain? I can.
I'll never forget you Dino!
Love Always,
Lori

Jose,
Thanks For all the rides home!
And good luck in the future and for your dreams to come. I'll never forget you no matter what!
Love,
DeeDee

Susan,
You are my life. You have meant the world to me. Some of my best times have been spent with you. Thanks for the best of everything.

Love ya,
Brent

Cookie,
Seventeen Magazines and Sebastian Hairspray. How about it?!

I Love You,

Tony H.,
I will Always remember you!
Love,
Shanya

Gaily-Gail,
Remember all of the Gossiping we did in Faculty Advisory?
Hope there's more to come!
Cindy

Through the years, we the students and the faculty have been known to create Jocularly at the expense of others. As the scholastic year wanes, a reconciliation to Fraternity SHOULD be consentaneous. Individuals ought give their classmates, pedagogues, and contrymen a pat on the dorsal surface while veraciously exhibiting the veridical admiration embedded in the realm of their selves toward those personages. We exhort you to be excellent one to another!
Bird and Chris Rowland

Traci,
Remember the Green Ham!
Cindy

I Love You Peaches!

Gregg and Danielle,
Is there life after Osco?
Susan

Richard and Dustin,
My 2 favorite guys — Thanks for the laughs.
Love,
Susan

Mike,
For all the good times in the wagon. We all love Mrs. Logan!
Scott, Roger, and Brad

To the six-pack Pow-Wow,
Well girls we've made it and WE'RE in control now!
Love ya guys
J.B.

Sean,
You're a special guy. Thanks for being there. I love you from

Mom, Dad, Brian and Brad

We love you . . .

Silverette, Wrestlerette

Doll,
We've been to hell and back again — but we've always had the best of times together.
Love Ya,
Hon

Regina and Lester,
Have a fabulous graduation,
and the best of luck in the future.
Love,
Traci

Juniors!
Remember the night we all got kicked out of stage? What fun!
Love,
Traci

Stanka,
We've had some terrific times this year. Hold those memories to heart. There will be plenty more next year!
Love,
Traci

Senior A.P. of '89
Great Trips! Thanks!
Brent

Matt and Gail,
You are two great friends! Good luck in the future and with each other.
Love,
Traci

Cindy,
We've been through hell and back, almost killing each other in the process. This summer is going to be a blast!
Love ya always,
Traci

Michael,
Remember last summer? New Year's Eve? They were the best days of my life — mostly because I shared them with you!
I'll Always Love You,
Stanka

Traci,
Remember Chippendale's?
How Could We forget!
Love,
Stanka

Glafira,
Thanks for all the times we shared together. I want you to know something too, I'll always be here for you. I hope so much that our friendship grows to be the greatest. Good luck Glafira.
Love Always,
DeeDee

To Malanoski,
Remember Union Station?
Ready to go?
Where's Albert?
Bopsey Twins

Lori,
1,2,3. It's been a great year. We finally did it, we're GRADU-ATING. Don't forget me when we leave. And another thing,
"Pool Party"
P.S. Don't worry about ____!
Love ya always — Your bestest friend ever DeeDee

Stanka,
Thanks for everything!!
Love,
DeeDee

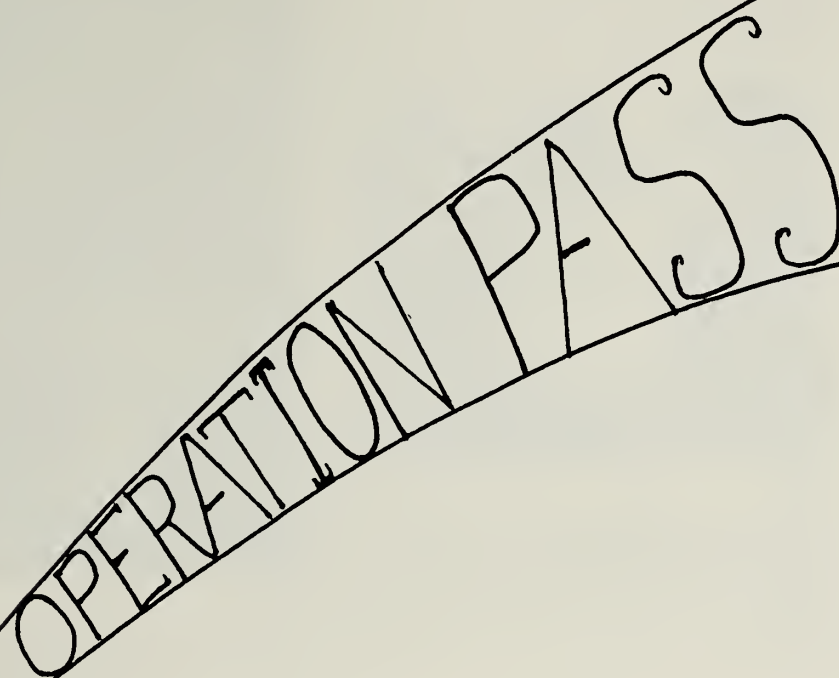

Birk,
Hey you sexy guy! Thanks for everything! I love ya!
Your Personal slave

To "Big" Bri,
with all my love.
To our future together.
Love always,
Lil' Beef

Herman,
Your the greatest! I couldn't ask for a better friend! We've had lots of fun together in the past year, and I Know we'll have even more fun in the years to come!
Good luck with Mitch!
Sure love ya
Charlie
P.S.
Tu Muy Pettite ChiChi's! Si?!
Yo Muy Grande!!!!

Brent darling,
Thanks for all the wonderful times you've shared with me.
LOVE you!

Stanka,
Hey Hon! When are you gonna get that sports car?
Cindy

Jimmy,
You're very special and mean a lot to me.
Sorry you had to wait till the senior year, but they say that good things come to those who wait!
Love Ya,
Me

Jeremy,
Thanks for trying to fix my car! I love your white socks!
Love,
Tina

Pam,
You're great. Thanks for taking care of me.
I don't know how you do it!
Love ya,
Diana

Jeremy,
Remember that day at your other house and that night at Bryans? Oooooo baby!
Love,
Tina

Jeremy,
Hey, you know how look like Kirk Hammett? HA! HA!
Love ya,
Tina

Karen and Dawn,
What a year. Yuck! We'll have no problem going out with a BANG!
Love you both!
Diana

Cindy,
Remember kindergarten? You better — that was the beginning of our friendship, forever!
Love ya,
Hon

Boo,
Hey senior! Who will we block in the hallway next year? We'll mis ya!
Love
Jassy-n-Jeff

Flopsy,
Was it Washington or Castleton? Thanks for all the talks! I know he's a waste and using up good oxygen! Say "Hi" to mom and dad.
Love,
Mopsy

Fats,
If I get started I'll take up the whole page,
but I think you know how I feel about you (even though you're going to P.U.) I'll always remember you! K.I.T.
Love,
Dee

Boo,
You're crazy and you look like, "Well I just can't say!"
Love,
Dee

Dave,
Thanks! And to think I thought I'd never see you again. I'm glad I did.
Love,
Dee

Jenny,
This year (especially second semester) you were such a help and a good friend. Thank you for "sharing your life" with me — hopefully it'll always be that way!
Love,
Dee

James-
Thanks for being my friend. I'll ALWAYS remember the memories.
Love,
Jen

Laura-
Has "the Virge" called you? Thanks for the talks and the friendship ... Want to go dancing?
Love,
Jen

Suz-
You've been a true friend! Through ups and downs — you've been there, I love you.
Let's party at BSU!!
Love,
Jen

Dee-
Good luck in all you do. I'm glad we became friends again! Don't EVER stop reaching for WHAT YOU WANT!
Love,
Jen

Rob,
You are a great brother. Keep up the good work and stay out of trouble.
Your sis,
Kathy

Stacy, Rena, Kelly, Regina & Dee, You guys are a great group of friends. Let's keep in touch next year.
Kathy

David,
Thank you for always listening; you are a very good friend.
Love,
Kathy

Boo and Fats,
GQ Power!
Dee

Mrs. Kirby,
I love you! Need I say more?!!
Dee

Stac,
After 13 years you've been the best friend a person could ask for. You've been my confidant and counselor and I'll love you and cherish our friendship. We must always keep in touch. Thanx for everything.
Love,
Dee

Derrick,
Waiting isn't bad if the good thing proves worthy. And this is good. Together always.

End Only Beginning

The 1988-89 school year has come to an end: finals, graduation, vacation, memories ... for those who came to Northwest High School in search of a few good times, many walked away with some very special memories.

Northwest started the year off with several new concepts and ideas — faculty advisory, tutoring programs, new teachers and coaches and many others. With these, NHS can say it has progressed with a better outlook on education. There were also fewer cuts (better attendance) and more students willing to learn and improve.

As for students in general, many have found new friends, good times and bad times, and loads of fun in all. No matter what, many of the students at NHS will look back and remember this year as one of the best years of their lives.

Now the year is gone and a new one is anxiously waiting to begin; to fill the minds of students in many ways. This book is a compilation of the old memories, and a door to the future and new ones. It is our hope (the VANGUARD staff) that you view this book as such, with our thanks and appreciation to students, teachers, the administration and all our friends at Herff Jones; and to everyone — Have a great summer!
